

Legal information

The basic rules for the use of legally relevant information posted on the website of ALCEA LLC (hereinafter referred to as 'ALCEA').

1. General conditions and requirements

All the information, including any and all images and information published on this website, is owned by ALCEA LLC and is protected by copyright law, unless otherwise indicated. One may only use texts and files (for example, press releases) from this website if the following conditions are met. Users of our Website are not allowed to alter the documents, use computer networks and third-party websites to download and copy the documents, as well as copy the documents or publish these in other forms of publication. Copyright ownership and sources of information should be fully indicated on all copies. However, one may use this website and any materials contained therein for non-commercial and/or personal purposes. The prior written consent from ALCEA is required in all and any other cases of use not specified above.

By using the ALCEA website and the services provided by ALCEA, you unconditionally accept the terms of use established by ALCEA. It is prohibited to use the website for purposes not expressly specified in these terms and conditions. Failure to comply with this provision may result in civil and criminal liability.

All the data and information on this website are of a general nature and are only intended for an individual to learn about ALCEA, its products and services. Furthermore, no information about ALCEA products may be considered an advertisement

The websites are not intended as sources of medical or any other recommendations and advice regarding ALCEA products and services. For more information about our products and services, please contact ALCEA directly.

Any information posted on this website may not be interpreted as an offer.

Some texts on this website may contain forward-looking statements or comments. Readers should take into account the fact that any such statements and comments may be influenced by unforeseen factors, so they should only be viewed as opinions.

2. Limited liability

ALCEA always strives to provide accurate and up-to-date information. However, ALCEA is not responsible for any damage caused in connection with the information published on this website. ALCEA reserves the right to make changes to the information at its own discretion. Therefore, we do not provide any express or implied warranties, nor do we make any representations regarding the accuracy and completeness of the information provided or the information to which we refer. Users shall use the ALCEA website or any other websites associated with this company, as well as the information contained on it, at their own risk. Neither ALCEA nor any other persons associated with the production, distribution, creation or maintenance of the website or its parts or offers shall be held liable in any form for direct or indirect damages that arise from access to ALCEA's Internet services or related information. ALCEA shall not be held liable for the availability of third-party websites or for their content. Users shall use hyperlinks to any such websites at their own risk and shall not hold ALCEA responsible.

Before taking or using our products, one should carefully read the instructions for use and consult a specialist. More detailed product information is contained in the instructions for use attached to any given product; in no case should one use the product information posted on the website as recommendations for use.

3. Third-party information

When necessary, this website contains the information from third parties, as well as links to the information from third parties, often with indicators to click through to third-party websites. Whenever possible, the information of third parties is marked accordingly. ALCEA does not acquire the right to own any information or websites of third parties by linking to those. ALCEA expressly declares that the company is not responsible for the content of any such websites, and any links to those are for recommendation purposes only.

4. Changing the content of the website

ALCEA reserves the right to make changes to the content of the website without any notice and whenever ALCEA deems it necessary. Visitors of this website acknowledge that ALCEA may not be held liable as a result of making any changes.

5. Copyright, brands, names and design

All the images and information on this website are protected by copyright laws or other relevant protections. The design and structure of this website are determined solely by ALCEA. All product names, links in capital letters, or links otherwise marked on this website are considered registered trademarks.

6. Governing law

By visiting this website, you agree to comply with the requirements of the existing laws and regulations of the Russian Federation.

Last updated: 10 December 2023